Our Philosophy

A café with a name that says it all

> "We called it "you" because the best cafés aren't about the owners. They are about the people who sit down."

Maya and Daniel opened the doors with six tables, one big oven and a promise to remember your order. No rushing, no pretension, just honest ingredients and warm greetings every morning.

We built a café around you

It started with a kitchen table, a small espresso machine and a lot of friends who kept coming back.

EST. 2021

6 tables, one big oven

Maya & Daniel
Founders · Roaster & Baker

Our Origins

2021 · The first pour

How it began

Maya was a barista who missed the feeling of a place that knows you. Daniel was a baker who wanted people to eat his bread while it was still warm. In a former neighborhood bookshop with creaky oak floors, they put their ideas together and opened six tables and one big oven.

There were no screens for ordering, no algorithmic timers, just the smell of roasted Ethiopian beans grinding at 6:45 AM and sourdough rising under unbleached baker's linen. They believed that when you take the rush out of morning coffee, people start looking each other in the eye again.

> "We wanted a counter where nobody is just a transaction."
>
> — MAYA & DANIEL, NOTE FROM OPENING MORNING

GUIDING PHILOSOPHY

What we care about

Three small promises we keep every day.

01

01. Know your name

We remember people, not just orders. From your preference for oat milk at extra temperature to how you like your corner table in the winter sun, our hospitality is personal, quiet, and attentive.

02

02. Made slowly

Fresh bread and carefully dialed coffee, never rushed. Our loaves ferment for 36 hours before hitting the brick hearth, and every batch of single-origin coffee is weighed and calibrated every single morning.

03

03. Good neighbors

Local roasters, local farms and a seat for everyone. We source butter from seventy miles away, honey from valley apiaries, and save our day-old crusts for our neighborhood community kitchen garden compost.

THE MORNING TABLE

Slow mornings are meant to be shared

Pick up a warm loaf right as the timer chimes at 8:00 AM.

Our Craft Collective

The people behind the counter

Meet the team who will make your next cup.

Maya Collins

Owner & Head Barista

Maya opened the café after years of making coffee for friends in her kitchen and dreaming of a place that remembers your order.

Daniel Reyes

Co-owner & Baker

Daniel gets up before sunrise to bake the cardamom buns and olive-oil loaves that fill the room with warmth.

Amira Haddad

Tea & Seasonal Menu Lead

Amira blends our house teas and invents the seasonal drinks, always with a handwritten tasting note.

Theo Brooks

Barista & Community Host

Theo knows every regular by name and organizes our Saturday quiet-reading mornings.

Chapter four in peace

Table by the glass

Saturday reading

Quiet morning with a book. No one rushes you to turn the table. Turn another page, let the tea steep a little longer, and watch the street slowly wake up.

Quiet hours · 8:00 AM – 11:00 AM

The big center table

Friends and cake

Sharing a slice. Two dessert forks, warm laughter that bounces off the lime plaster walls, and catching up on everything that couldn't be said in a text.
